Bush Foundation Helping Leech Lake

Rebuilding Native Nations is more than just building a new economy that relies less and less on gaming. Rebuilding means just that, rebuilding. Taking a system that has been spinning its wheels with very little progress, restructuring it with checks and balances that separate the power base that exists mostly in the executive arena. It means building a system that is based on a fair and balanced decision making process with cultural components, and not on political affiliation. It's about restoring confidence.

In congress with the Native Nations Institute, the Bush Foundation sent representatives to Leech Lake for a two day executive education session for the leadership of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe. The session included: what Leech Lake has done so far with regard to begin the nation building process, a review of what was discussed and followed up on after the last nation building session in January of 2013, a comparison between tribes that are using the nation building approach and tribes that are not, an assessment of whether Leech Lake has the tools to achieve our goals, defining what being sovereign means to us, and an internal analysis of our situation at Leech Lake regarding checks and balances, power structure, and organizational structure.

January 8th 2013, the Native Nations Institute came to Leech Lake and gave presentations on nation building that included: A comparison of successful tribes and less successful tribes, how to strengthen tribal government through strategic thinking and a look at the American Indian leadership roles across the United States.

Two tribes that were highlighted as success stories were the Tulalip Band and The Confederated Tribe of Salish and Kootenai. The Tulalip Tribes live in a state that enacted Public Law 280 where Enrollees are subject to State jurisdiction over criminal matters on their reservation. However, State and local authorities proved incapable of curbing the violence and the crime rate. After the turn of the century the Tulalip Tribes went through a process called "retrocession" which gave the band's court system criminal jurisdiction over misdemeanors and concurrent jurisdiction with the feds regarding felonies. Meanwhile the tribes rebuilt their court systems to help guide the new jurisdiction in a more culturally familiar fashion within their new codes and laws where justice now applies more to cultural values with more of a focus on mental, physical, and spiritual health of the individual as well as a requirement to participate in self-improvement programs.

Since its implementation repeat offences have decreased 25% two years in a row, violent crime is dropping considerably, resisting arrest offenses are all but non-existent, gang related crime has dropped as well as the number of warrants. This is an excellent example of a tribe that has implemented a nation building approach to self-determination.

The Confederated Tribe of Salish and Kootenai (CSKT) were having trouble getting services to its band members. There were several offices between the Tribe and the County that offered social services. The offices were scattered across the county and the reservation and there was also a transportation issue for most Band members. The CSKT took it upon themselves to build an office complex that housed all of the services as well as implemented a low cost bussing service. Now people receive the services they require in a timely fashion and the process is so efficient that some services are provided before applicants have a chance to fill out the intake form. Another great example of taking a failing system, enacting a solution and seeing direct results.

Economic Development was the next issue of the day. Again we look at versions of the standard approach (what we have had for years) and the Nation Building approach. First we look at our standard approach. This take on our economy we've all seen for years now. We define success in receiving the next grant, we think short-term without strategy, we see our economy mostly as a problem to fix, we look for the get-rich-quick instead of starting with a foundation upon which to build an economy. The counties and State as well as the Feds view of us under the standard approach: They fund us as yearly "programs" or "projects" and retain control over us through the funding they give.

According to the standard approach to nation building we tend to employ grant writers to find some fundable grants, we start whatever we can get funded and appoint supporters and micromanage the programs where we hope for the funding to last as long as possible. The repercussions of the approach are manifold. The standard approach illustrates that the enterprises fail or run deficits, creates a system of political factions and the educated qualified Band members who could be helping tend to seek employment elsewhere with their credentials. Also, the perception both within and without the reservation is that of incompetence which undermines the confidence of the community and the possible investors who could pump millions of dollars into the local economy with new business ventures. This track also leads to continued poverty and dependence where sovereignty is virtually non-existent.

The Nation Building approach puts the control of development into the Band's hands, and creates consequences to poor decisions as a practical self-determination model. It also requires an effective non-politicized method for dispute resolution in the form of a strong independent court system that is above party or political interest. The Nation Building approach also has a cultural link that conforms to traditional ideals regarding authority and how that authority is organized and used. It taps into a nation's history for ideas about how these intricate details can be applied to tribal government in today's time. Typically, power is decentralized and spread across a "branch" of government. This includes a separate judiciary or court system that has its own codes and laws with possibly elected judges that are not hired and fired by the Tribal leadership, they are appointed by a separate power base or they are themselves elected.

All of this results in a change of direction. Decisions and initiatives are long-term and proactive rather than based on the latest emergency or possible funding of a grant. The mind-set is for the next quarter century and beyond, not for the next fiscal quarter. This is especially important for Leech Lake as we look around to the problems we face such as drug and alcohol abuse, apathy or even mistrust of educational institutions, health problems, homelessness, etc. etc.. All of these issues can be traced back to the generation before now and before that and so on.

Years ago American Indian's culture, traditions, identity, as well as everyday lives were met with a changing landscape. Geographically, the settlement of the west resulted in borders; the invisible lines that denote confinement when moving from place to place for reasons of sustenance was the norm. Culturally, constraints were applied to education, hunting and gathering, ceremonies, language etcetera. Politically, forms of leadership went from a traditional model, to no model, to a form of decision making that is chaotic at best where traditions and cultural history are mostly ignored when it comes to how daily lives are lived, decisions are made, and how the direction of our future is set.

With tools like Rebuilding Native Nations, Governance Analysis for Native Nations and numerous foundations and institutions like the Native Nations Institute, The Kennedy School of Government's Harvard Project on American Indian Economic Development, The University of Arizona's Udall Center in Public Policy and the Bush Foundation having done the heavy lifting regarding the reasearch and educational aspect of transferring this incredible knowledge to American Indian communities across the United States, it should be only a matter of time a small amount of luck coupled with some courageous leaders willing to let a little power go and we should be on our way toward a new and exciting time on the Leech Lake Reservation.

This is Part I of a series that will continue in our July issue. Please stay tuned...

The Silent Epidemic – Hepatitis C

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that there are approximately 3.2 million persons in the United States chronically infected with Hepatitis C (HCV). Only 25 % of these individuals have actually been diagnosed, the other 75% have the disease and do not know it. "Hepatitis" means inflammation of the liver. This condition can be caused by alcohol, chemicals, drugs and viruses that attack the liver.

HCV is transmitted primarily through large or repeated percutaneous (i.e., passage through the skin) exposures to infectious blood, such as

- Injection drug use (IDU) (currently the most common means of HCV transmission in the United States). It is estimated that 50% of IDU will become HCV infected in the first year of drug use. After 5 years of IDU, 90% are HCV-infected.
- Receipt of donated blood, blood products, and organs (once a common means of transmission but now rare in the United States since blood screening became available in 1992)
- Needle stick injuries in health care settings
- Birth to an HCV-infected mother

HCV can also be spread infrequently through

- Sex with an HCV-infected person (an inefficient means of transmission)
- Sharing personal items contaminated with infectious blood, such as razors or toothbrushes (also inefficient vectors of transmission)
- Other health care procedures that involve invasive procedures, such as injections (usually recognized in the context of outbreaks)

How do you know if you have HCV? The majority of people infected (80%) do not have any symptoms. If you do have symptoms, they may include fever, abdominal pain, loss of appetite, nausea, jaundice, or dark urine. Jaundice (yellowing of the skin and whites of your eyes) occurs in 25% of patients. The incubation period of the disease ranges from 2 weeks to 6 months, so you can spread the disease without knowing it.

Of every 100 persons infected with HCV, approximately:

- 75–85 will go on to develop chronic infection
- 60–70 will go on to develop chronic liver disease
- 5–20 will go on to develop cirrhosis over a period of 20–30 years
- 1–5 will die from the consequences of chronic infection (liver cancer or cirrhosis)

HCV testing is recommended for anyone in the following categories:

- Persons born from 1945 through 1965
- Persons who have ever injected illegal drugs, including those who injected only once many years ago
- Recipients of clotting factor concentrates made before 1987
- Recipients of blood transfusions or solid organ transplants before July 1992
- Patients who have ever received long-term hemodialysis treatment
- Persons with known exposures to HCV, such as
 - health care workers after needle sticks involving HCV-positive blood
 - recipients of blood or organs from a donor who later tested HCV-positive
- All persons with HIV infection
- Patients with signs or symptoms of liver disease (e.g., abnormal liver enzyme tests)
- Children born to HCV-positive mothers (to avoid detecting maternal antibody, these children should not be tested before age 18 months).

If you test positive, there are treatment options available. There is no vaccine for Hepatitis C, and even if you get the disease once, you can get it again. Please talk with your health care provider about getting tested.

The Indian Health Service (IHS) has completed an Environmental Assessment (EA) and has issued a Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI) for the proposed Cass Lake Clinic Expansion Project.

The project consists of approximately a 25,000 sq ft addition and the renovation of approximately 8,500 sq ft of the existing facility for outpatient services and a paved parking lot. The project location is the Cass Lake Hospital located in Cass Lake, Minnesota on the Leech Lake Reservation.

The EA was developed by the IHS Bemidji Area Office in consultation with the Leech Lake Band and complies with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), relevant federal and state laws and regulations, and IHS policies and procedures. Prior to authorizing any federal action, the IHS must consider the environmental and cultural impacts of its actions.

The EA can be reviewed by contacting Kami Wooldridge (218) 444-0546 or Matt Ireland (218) 335-3324.

Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe to Change Assistance Methods

Effective July 1, 2013, the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe will change the methods it uses in providing direct benefit assistance to members of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe. The most significant change that will take place is that Tribal Council members will no longer directly provide assistance to Band members; all assistance will be handled by the Tribal Assistance Program in accordance with duly approved policies and regulations which will define and establish eligibility criteria.

For at least seventeen (17) years, Band law has provided that the Tribal Council may not provide direct assistance to Band members. In July 1996, the Leech Lake Tribal Council adopted Operating Rules and Procedures by LL Resolution No. 97-02. The Rules provide that the Tribal Council may not directly authorize assistance to Band members, but that Council members may refer Band members to the appropriate assistance program (Rule 3 & Rule 7).

The Tribal Council Operating Rules and Procedures provide that rules and criteria relating to assistance for Band members shall be set by policies and regulations adopted by the Tribal Council. The Council is currently considering such regulations and will streamline its general assistance programs to Band members into one Tribal Assistance Program.

These policies and regulations will outline who is eligible for assistance and determine the level of assistance that is available. Establishing criteria and following these policies will help ensure that all Band members receive equal consideration for assistance by treating each request fairly and consistently within the parameters and criteria of the policies.

There are two primary reasons the Leech Lake Tribal Council is changing the way the Band provides assistance. The first reason is to ensure compliance with federal taxation laws. Direct service benefits provided by tribal governments to tribal members are exempt from taxation under the General Welfare Doctrine if and only if the benefit provided meets the requirements of the exemption. These requirements require that assistance be determined based on need (eligibility criteria), and this requires consistent documentation.

The IRS recently completed a review of Leech Lake's current assistance methods and has verbally concluded that eligibility documentation is insufficient; in short, the current assistance program probably does not meet the requirements of the General Welfare Doctrine. Rather than assess a penalty to the Band and tax Band members for the benefits provided, the IRS will identify and note areas of inconsistency and insufficiency in a final determination letter to be released later this year. The IRS plans on returning to the Band in the next two to three years to re-evaluate our assistance methods to ensure compliance with IRS rules and regulations. If we are not in compliance at that time, the Band may face a hefty penalty and Band members may be assessed taxes on benefits provided by the Band. In order to avoid that result, the Band is changing the way assistance is offered.

The second reason the Tribal Council is changing the assistance method is to comply with current Band law. As noted above, LL Resolution No. 97-02 established that Tribal Council members cannot directly provide assistance to Band members.

You've made your Dental Appointment... Now what?

Have no worries! We have a few choices to help you get here!

Dental appointment information

- Our schedule opens up for regular adult exams (age 18-54) on Tuesdays at 12:45pm. You may call at this time to schedule an exam. These exams are generally scheduled at least 4 weeks in advance and are on a first-call first-serve basis. After your initial exam, we can start scheduling your treatment appointments, if needed.
- Most treatment planned appointments start at 10am and continue throughout the day. However, some providers start treatment appointments at 7am. Please let the dental receptionist know if you have a time preference for your appointments.
- Courtesy reminder calls are a service we provide; we will call 2 business days prior to your upcoming appointment. You may reschedule at that time if needed.
- On Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, we offer same day call in appointments. Wednesday appointments are scheduled with Dr. Ellis and Thursday appointments are scheduled with Dr. Woods. Please call between 8-9 am on these mornings to schedule a same day appointment. Both exam and treatment appointments are available as same day appointments and are scheduled for the afternoon.
- Registration for emergencies or walk-in appointments begins at 7am. To increase your chances of having treatment completed, please check-in with patient registration before 8am.
- We may be able to find an appointment for you if there is a same day cancellation. If interested in being added to this short-call list, please let the dental receptionist know.
- Broken Appointment Policy:

A patient who breaks 2 appointments within a year can not be scheduled for an advance appointment for one year from the date of the second broken appointment.

A broken appointment is:

- When a patient does not show up for the appointment
- When a patient cancels an appointment with less than a 24 hour notice
- When a patient arrives 10 minutes past their scheduled appointment time, leaving not enough time to provide the scheduled treatment

Not In Our Backyard!

Did you know in little as 15 minutes of burning garbage you can contaminate 25 feet around your burn with toxic chemicals? Burning household waste or garbage in a barrel or a fire pit is twice as harmful as it was 20 years ago due to more plastics and post consumer recycled content in today's trash. Burning is not an efficient, effective, or environmentally sound way of disposing of household waste.

Burning trash can release:

- Lead
- Mercury
- Chromium
- Cadmium
- Dioxins
- Particulate Matter
- along with many other harmful pollutants.

Ashes are twice as harmful as they are concentrated and can pollute the air, soil, and water, garden, play area, and wildlife in your backyard!

Since 2006, the Leech Lake Air Quality Program has implemented the Burn Barrel Exchange project. Each household is given two recycling bins to promote recycling, reduce waste, and sign a pledge not to burn in exchange for their burner removal. Stopping backyard burning reduces the risk of pollution on the Reservation dramatically; while recycling can cut household waste in half or greater.

To date, the Leech Lake Air Quality Program has collected over 75+ burners and reduced over two tons of potential harmful air pollution. We continue to work for solutions for removing these pollution-producers and curb backyard burning.

Burning has been illegal in Minnesota since 1969, illegal on the Leech Lake Reservation since 2006. You can help our sovereign nation stop illegal burning on the Reservation and recycle, reduce and reuse to lessen our waste stream.

Right now, the Leech Lake Air Program is offering two recycle bins in trade for free pick up of a burn barrel on the Reservation. This program has proven to be very successful. WE WANT YOUR BURNER! This simple positive statement begins with you and your want for a cleaner Reservation by standing with the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe behind the bold statement, "Not In Our Backyard!"

Report illegal burning to the Leech Lake Air Program or Leech Lake Conservation Enforcement at 218-335-7400 for on Reservation and to the Minnesota DNR Forestry Department 218-335-6647 for off Reservation.

For any questions, comments, reports or burn barrel pickups please contact Brandy or Sydney at the DRM at 335-7429 and join us in our fight for a cleaner Reservation for generations to come. We are setting up another burn barrel collection for Fall Call us to reserve your spot today! Mii-gwiich

Honorable Paul W. Day, Chief Judge of Tribal Court
Honorable Korey Wawassuck, Judge of Tribal Court

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE Traffic Division

YOU (THE DEFENDANTS LISTED BELOW) ARE HEREBY ORDERED to appear before the Leech Lake Tribal Court and show cause why you should not be held in Contempt of Court for failure to pay court-ordered fines.

YOU ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that pursuant to Leech Lake Traffic Code, Chapter, Section 304:

1. If you are found in Contempt of Court, you may be subject to an additional penalty not to exceed $500.00, said penalty for contempt shall be in addition to any fines or other penalties previously assessed by this Court.
2. You may also be subject to one or more of the following enforcement actions without further notice:
 - a. Report violation to the State of Minnesota for entry on defendant's driving record;
 - b. Add the fine to the amount defendant must pay to renew or obtain Leech Lake vehicle registration or plates;
 - c. Seize defendant's vehicle registration plates;
 - d. Seize the vehicle driven by defendant at the time of the violation;
 - e. Suspend defendant's fishing, hunting, trapping, ricing or other treaty rights within the boundaries and jurisdiction of the Leech Lake Band until defendant pays the fine in full.
 - f. Garnish wages by the Leech Lake Band.

/s/ Korey Wawassuck, Judge of Tribal Court.

Judy
Harper

Judy Ann Harper, whose Ojibwe name is "Chi-Ikwe" which means "Great Woman", 67, of Cass Lake died Saturday, May 11, 2013 at her home.

Traditional funeral Services will be 10:00 am, Wednesday, May 15, 2013 at the Judy Harper residence located at 16763 65th Ave. NW, Cass Lake with Spiritual Leader Lee Staples. A wake will begin Tuesday, May 14, 2013 and will continue until the time of the service on Wednesday. Interment will be at the St. John's Episcopal Cemetery in Onigum, MN under the direction of the Cease Family Funeral Home of Cass Lake.

Judy was born August 27, 1945 in Cass Lake, MN the daughter of Alvin and Emily (Thompson) Staples. She grew up and attended school in Cass Lake graduating from Cass Lake H.S in 1963, where she was Homecoming Queen. She married Dennis Harper on June 8, 1963. They moved to Chicago where they lived their lives by helping others. They helped to organize efforts that impacted many parts of our Anishinaabe communities through educational and political arenas. While living in Chicago, they organized the Native American Committee which led to the creation and opening of the Chicago American Indian Center. She worked as an advocate for Native American Mental Health Issues.

In 1973 their family moved back home to Cass Lake, where she continued her role in education and community organizing. She spent many years with the Cass Lake Public Schools, advocating for all children. She and others from the native community organized a public school student walk-out and established the Chief Bug O Nay Ge Shig School at Leech Lake as a way to recognize the importance of our Anishinaabe identity to our educational efforts and which proved to be a model or inspiration for other tribal nations at a time when a path to empowerment was being sought.

She was a very artistic and accomplished seamstress; she loved watching Antiques Roadshow. She was an avid, accomplished and ruthless Scrabble player; another one of her favorite past times was the casino and even her car knew the way there. Her greatest joy in life was her family. Her truest sense of accomplishment came through seeing her family together and watching them grow. She made sure to be a constant role in her grandchildren's lives. She is survived by her 5 genius children Melanie Harper, Jeffrey Harper, Laurie Harper, Leslie Harper, Darren (Josie) Harper, all of Cass Lake; 13 stupendous grandchildren- Leaha, Di'anne, Cole, Jace, Max, Sydney, Corinne, Alex, Jackson, Keenan, Taylor, Brendan, Dennis and Theo, 7 great grandchildren- Leslie, Miika, Ani, Landon, Tavion, Neo and Emily, a brother- Patrick (Deb) Staples of New Town, North Dakota and sisters- Rebecca (Mike) Olson of Eden Prairie, MN, Elizabeth Aitken, of Cass Lake and Kay (Douglas) Jackson of Bemidji, MN and many nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her parents, husband in 2008, brother Alan, sister - Heby and grandson Truman. Casketbearers will be Darren Harper, Keenan Humphrey, Taylor Humphrey, Brendan Humphrey, Alex Harper and Adrian Liberty.
